Superintendent-Gary Kamps

this year's Excelsior. Each remembered experience has shaped you in some way. Some may seem negative now, but might be remembered to be positive many years hence. From your youthful frame of reference, there could be wonderful experiences now; but in the future, you might look back and say, "How foolish I was!"

This school year has been a successful year. As you page through this annual, note the major accomplishments in our extra-curricular programs. Clubs and organizations have realized many worthwhile goals. Our athletic teams achieved major successes; our dramatically talented students have produced fine plays; and our music programs have been outstanding. These experiences will long be remembered.

Your greatest experiences this year, however, involve your academic and spiritual growth. From my perspective, you have grown in your knowledge of the world in which you live. You have become better at experiencing and relating to that world. Your Christian perspective enables you to deal with all kinds of situations. You can go forward with the Apostle Paul's confidence and say as he said in his letter to the Philippians: "I can do all things through Christ which strengthens me."

My congratulations to all of you for a great year. May the Lord Bless you and give you a great future!

In Christian love,
Gary Kamps,
Superintendent

Principal-Ron Polinder

On the bulletin board in my office is a quote from Joe Bayly, a prominent Christian thinker and writer who recently passed away. He said, "I can't imagine Abraham and Sarah sending Isaac to the Canaanite school down the block". As you can guess, Mr. Bayly was a strong advocate of Christian schools.

Lynden Christian School, now completing its 78th year, exist because in the spirit of Abraham and Sarah your parents have chosen a different kind of education for you than what most parents in our nation choose. Your parents view education differently than most. Their convictions cost them dearly.

Their choice, and for the vast majority of Lynden Christian students, your choice cost you something too. You are good about that most of the time, but once in awhile you probably would like to be just like everybody else. That's natural - yet we are called to be in the world, but not of the world.

So why do we do this - this Christian education business? Why is it difficult to imagine Isaac in a Canaanite school? As we review the events of the year, is there any significant difference in comparing Lynden Christian to the neighboring school? If there are differences, do students at Lynden Christian perceive them?

First we should acknowledge with a measure of humility that Lynden Christian has a difficult time living up to the high ideals, the Christian standards it has set for itself. As a community of parents, teachers, students, administrators we make a lot of mistakes. We must confess that we are sinners saved by grace.

But understanding this about ourselves i.e. who we are, and who Christ is, makes a big difference in how we do education at Lynden Christian. We believe in a Creator, and we understand we are part of His creation. By acknowledging God as the source of truth and knowledge, we are at the beginning of wisdom.

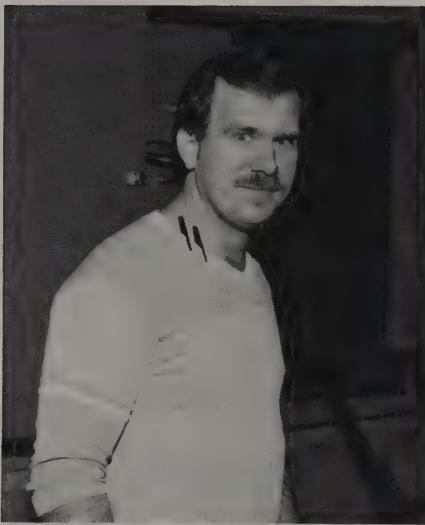

How did that translate to life at school this past year? Students participated in a devotional life at school, where prayer and chapel are part of a pattern that practices the presence of Christ. Students sat at the feet of Christian teachers who worked very hard to be both an example of Christian living, and an instructor of knowledge and truth. Students and staff were expected to live within a set of standards of behavior that were based on Christian principles. Teachers were expected to claim Christ as Lord of science and social studies, art and agriculture, P.E. and Personalized Reading. Our homes, churches, and school formed a partnership to train young people in the fear of the Lord.

Students were reminded that those marvelous musical talents demonstrated in the "Pirates of Penzance" and those wonderful wins on the basketball court were gifts from our Father. Finally, we were all urged to reject other gods, whether they be the gods of Canaan or the gods of America, and worship the one true God.

To use the words of Robert Frost, we have at Lynden Christian take a "road less traveled by, and that has made all the difference".
